

The Sunday News, of Louisville, containing an interview with an alleged person, whose statements in regard to our enemy to the Blackburn family is false in every particular, and we would be glad to have the editor specify his identity. He charges that we first tried to kill Joe Blackburn and failing, fell onto Jim, who survived our attacks and then we mounted the old Governor. These statements are as far from the truth as they can be. We have never said a word against Hon. Joe Blackburn and but few against Jim, and then when he took some cranky position while in the Senate. As to Gov. Blackburn, we have never covered him with red-hot, rip-roaring abuse. We have criticized his abuse of the pardoning power, and intend to continue to do so as long as it is abused, but we have yet to say a word against him in any other capacity than that of Governor. The very smart Aleck further says that it is doubtful whether the Governor used the language attributed to him. Then why did he not deny it when given an opportunity? Because he could not and because he dare not raise a question of veracity with the scores of gentlemen to whom he used the same language in speaking of us. We have the evidence in black and white from gentlemen of good standing, whose word is as good as their oaths, and stand ready to testify when the Legislature shall have taken steps towards his impeachment.

We give elsewhere tables showing the presidential vote in the last general election in the proposed Eighth and Eleventh Congressional Districts. The majorities are nothing to brag on, and we greatly fear that the Committee has made a mistake in calculating the republican strength on the basis of a presidential vote. It is not the safe way to judge, especially in Kentucky, where the democratic majority is so overwhelming, that the republican leaders do not think it worth the time and expense even for a small increase in their vote that it would make. The better plan would have been to have calculated the relative strength on hotly contested elections in the various counties. A gentleman who has studied the matter tells us that he has taken the pains to pursue the latter course, and that instead of a democratic majority in this district as laid off, there is actually a republican majority of several hundred, and the same is the case in the 3d and 11th Districts, which he thinks may just as surely elect republican congressmen as the 9th would have done had it been left as it was. In other words the Committee instead of giving the republicans one district certain, have by trying to make them all democratic, given them, with a fighting chance in others. We hope that it is not too late yet for the Legislature to see the error of this bill as presented, and make the necessary changes.

A CORRESPONDENT calls to mind the following words of Gov. Blackburn, who made use of them, sometime after his inauguration in an interview with a Courier-Journal reporter. "Say to the public that there are two violations of the law that I will not pardon; viz: Carrying concealed deadly weapons and selling liquor to minors." When this was published the law-loving people of the State took courage and began to hope that after all, Governor Blackburn would endeavor to have the laws of the State and the judgments of the Courts enforced. But how has it turned out? He has not kept his word, not even in a single instance where he imagined he saw the slightest reason for pardon. The consequence is that crime has grown and flourished under his administration, and the State is far worse off in every respect than when a foolish people allowed him to enter upon so great a trust. He has not only done violence to the best interests of the State but has done the democratic party an injury that will tell in the next State election. We regret to say these things but that they are the truth, every thinking man must and does admit.

The report of the Committee appointed to investigate the condition of the convict labor in railroad camps, shows a state of cruelty and inhumanity that it is almost impossible to believe. We have no doubt, since the mass of the evidence came from the convicts themselves, that the condition of affairs is much exaggerated. That the contract system is the cheapest way of disposing of the crowded penitentiary question there can be no two opinions, but whether it is best, in view of the developments, is another thing. It strikes us, however, that the contractors might be forced to treat the convicts, humanely, at least.

The Louisville Post is publishing the records of Kentucky members of Congress during the present session. That of Hon. Phil B. Thompson, Jr., is very creditable, and shows that he has been far from being idle. He has proved himself since his entry into Congress as a wide-awake member and ready at all times to serve his constituents.

HENRY WAINWORTH LONGFELLOW, America's greatest and sweetest poet, died at his home at Cambridge, Mass., Friday, at the advanced age of 75 years. He has "left his footprints on the sands of time" that will never be effaced while the beautiful in poetry is recognized and appreciated.

WILLIAM BROWN, poor William, wishes by this time that a millstone was placed about his neck and that he was cast into the sea. It is bad for William that he did not remember that while a man should always speak the truth, there are times when he had best not speak at all.

The legislative news this week isn't worth the space it would take to publish it. Richmond Register. And the same might have been truthfully said of it every week since it has been in session. Louisville Post.

The bill authorizing a poll-book to be opened at the next August election, to take the sense of the qualified voters of the State as to prohibiting the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors as a beverage, passed the Senate—17 to 10.

A freight train ran into President Cole's Palace Car near Knoxville, smashing it to smithereens, killing the porter and wounding several others.

A woman in Dallas, Texas, has sued the Texas Pacific Railroad Company for $200,000 for killing her husband. Her hands must be scarce in that State.

The investigation of U. S. Marshal Crittenden's office shows that stealings to the amount of perhaps $30,000 have been made from the government by his deputies.

The grant national mill has emptied into the House hopper, to date, 5,380 bills and 174 joint resolutions, and in the Senate hopper there have been emptied 1,569 bills and 64 joint resolutions, making a total of 7,181 bills to be grinded.

Kate Sothorn, first sentenced to be hung for the killing of Marjorie Cowart, her rival in the affection of her husband, and the sentence afterward commuted to ten years in a convict camp, was pardoned by the Governor of Georgia Saturday.

The United States House Appropriation Committee has struck out of the Post-Office Appropriation Bill the Senate amendment restoring the franking privilege to Congressmen, so the question will not arise in the House save possibly on a conference report.

A procession of workmen serenaded Grant at Washington Friday, because he had enforced the 8-hour law with the governmental employees while president. His appearance did not please them. They next serenaded Arthur, but he did not honor them even with a slight of hand.

SOMERSET NOTES.—T. Q. & R. T. Kilgob, have purchased 60 acres of the Ogden land for $750. The 60 per cent. of the school money has been received by the Commissioner, which amounts to $10,400. The Norwood Mill sawed 8,500 barrel staves in 7 hours and 40 minutes. Judge Kendrick bought a good mare for $100.

The State of Texas has purchased from the estate of the late Charles Morgan, of New York, $442,000 of its own bonds, paying for them 140. The bonds were due in 1904, with interest at 7 per cent. This makes the reduction in the State debt for the past twelve months over $1,000,000, leaving it something less than $4,000,000.

It is a disgraceful state of affairs when respectable parents will wink at and allow their boys to run off to the country when the grand jury assembles. If these boys, know of any wrong-doing they should be made to tell it, and their parents should be among the first in testifying upon their staying at home and facing the music. [Madisonville Times.]

The House by a vote of 167 yeas to 65 nays, passed the bill to restrict Chinese immigration, in the precise shape it passed the Senate, but the President has not signed it. All amendments were voted down, including those to limit the operations of the bill to ten and fifteen years. The bulk of the negative vote came from the Republican side. New England being almost solid against the bill.

The Jeffersonian Club at York, Pa., have adopted the following resolution: That this association declares its anxiety for the commutation of all Democratic (so called) who have actively or passively given comfort to the beneficiaries of the fraud by which Samuel J. ## PULASKI COUNTY.

Eubanks Station.

The Literary Society here will discuss Equal Education of the Sexes today.

Mrs. Sarah A. Bastin is suffering from a dislocation of the ankle joint, caused by a fall from a log which she was walking over Fishing Creek.

If any one would know just how to part a couple of sham fighters let him inquire of Rev. J. A. Gooch, who has lately become an adept in this business.

Corn is selling here at $1 per bushel; Irish potatoes, $1.75 to $2 per bushel; Bacon 13c; butter, 25c, and eggs, 10c. Wheat is looking well, and farmers are exultant over their prospects for harvest.

We scarcely recognized our last communication when we looked upon it in print. In your "working order" you made us present to the public no less than seven errors regarding religious worship.

We correct but one: Rev. W. T. Tyree does not preach here every Saturday and Sunday. We hope this article will not find its way to the waste basket without publication, as an explanation is due both the writer and the people whom your types have deceived. [We were crowded for space and had to condense. We ask all our correspondents to put the news in as few words as possible to express the sense. Ed.]

C. G. Ware is here visiting relatives. He also has an eye to any young cattle that may be found "hanging around loose." He bought of Anderson Nelson, last week, one yoke oxen for which he paid $70. Mr. Ware also bought of the Nelson Bros. 17 head of 1 and 2-year-old calves, ranging in price from $10 to $20. Willis Floyd sold to Jim Floyd, 1 horse for $45. Dock Bough sold to C. G. Ware, 6 head of calves for $114. This is a Highland item, but has been overlooked by your correspondent at this place: J. M. Stone, of Casey county, shipped from this point to Cincinnati, last week, 1,169 lbs. of tobacco.

We fear Mr. Stone will not realize a reasonable profit on his crop, owing to the smallness of the bins in which the tobacco was packed. [C. G. Ware bought of J. G. Watson, 1 yoke of oxen for $60.

Horace Taylor is very low with typhoid fever. Rev. Wm. Taylor is confined with fever. Mr. and Mrs. Lilliam Floyd are confined to their beds with pneumonia. Z. B. Higher, of Cincinnati, and others from the State of Ohio, are here looking for homes. Many of our farmers are anxious to sell their lands, and will, no doubt, accommodate those wishing to purchase in this locality. [Will Hall and family, together with Bill McClure and Mrs. Elmer McClure, take the train here to-day for Kansas, where all save Mr. McClure, will make their future homes. As honest industrious people, we commend them to those among whom they may settle. Squire D. Gooch, who has for some time been "teaching the young ideas how to shoot," has tired of his occupation and is now carrying water to R. F. Warner and Henry Reynolds, at H. W. Caldwell's Saw Mill. Squire is a first-class teacher, and will no doubt prove to be efficient in his present avocation. L. G. Gooch is in Cincinnati this week purchasing a Spring stock of goods.

CASEY COUNTY.

Middleburg.

The freeze and frost of last Wednesday night killed the peaches.

Fish are reported more plentiful in the river this Spring than for several years.

At the sale of the property of Mr. W. F. Fogle last Thursday every thing sold well. 1 horse 20-years old brought $27.50; 1 mare, $40; 1 mare, $30; 1 mule, $120; 1 horse, $67.50; 3 yearling heifers, $10.50 13 calves, $4.95 per head. About 200 head of sheep were sold at an average of about $2.80 per head. Corn brought $4.30 per barrel. One spring wagon brought $25. Farming tools brought good prices. A small amount of furniture belonging to J. A. Bryant was sold at very low prices.

We have two candidates in this county for Judge, three for Clerk, two for County Attorney, four for Jailer, and 36 for Assessor. We anticipate a lively time throughout the coming Summer. Col. Silas Adams, Capt. T. W. Wash and Judge Winston Bowman, of Liberty, were in town last Thursday looking after their interest as candidates. Col. Adams was looking unusually well, and assured us that he would be re-elected County Attorney. The Col. is a clever fellow, but we are of the opinion that he will be mistaken, as he is not running against Jerry Pitman this time.

WAYNE COUNTY.

Monticello.

Han Tuttle is a candidate for Crooner. He says he intends to run from "end to end."

The Boreal wane, injured the fruit crop, and checked the growth of grass and wheat very materially.

A horse belonging to James Haynes' while being shod at Hoffaker's shop, reared and fell back, breaking one of fore-legs in two places.

Prof. C. W. Sewell having made satisfactory arrangements with W. J. Kendrick, will remove his school to the house in District No. 2, where he will complete the session in which he is at present engaged and will endeavor to establish a permanent high school either at that house, or one built especially for the purpose in that neighborhood.

Mrs. T. J. J. D. and Lewis Oatts, are still in the South. They report the stock market dull, but think they will come out all right at the close of the season. Mr. I. N. Shepperd started on a business visit to Frankfort last Sunday. We assume that his business is to ransack the Archives at the State Capitol with a view to getting material for the approaching campaign against your humble servant for County Clerk. We think we have got him scared.

The Union Church at this place is to be occupied during the year, as follows: First Sundays and Saturdays preceding the Baptists—Eld. Jno. A. Hopkins, pastor. Second Sundays by Rev. Trip-latt, of the Presbyterian Church. When not present his time will be occupied by Eld. Sewell, of the Christian Church. The third Sundays morning and night, belong to the Methodist brethren—preaching by Rev. W. Walters, pastor. The fourth Lord's day will be occupied by Elder Carl W. Sewell, of the Church of Christ, morning and night.

Mr. James E. Sallee, of Colorado, who has been spending several weeks with his father and friends in this vicinity, will start on his return West to-morrow.

Col. Coby Oatts, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Rita, and niece, Miss Francis Oatts, will start on a visit to Frankfort and Louisville to-morrow. The young ladies will likely spend some weeks in the city. Mr. Geo. W. Fleming has lately moved to the property vacated by H. J. Phillips. William Duncan has moved to the property vacated by Mr. Fleming. The property left by Mr. Fleming, on the East side of town, is advertised for sale on next Monday.

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Sam. M. Burdett, Editor.

The fruit is all safe yet, although there was considerable snow and ice during the week.

Mr. Perryman is still preaching at this place. No additions so far. He will continue to preach this week.

Jack Adams, Jr., goes to Louisville to-day. Mr. T. B. Miller is at home on a visit. A. D. Smith, of Knoxville, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Isabriel Hunt was tried on a writ of Habeas and adjudged to be a lunatic last Saturday. This marks the third time that he was tried and sent to the asylum.

A report reached here this morning that there had been a shooting scrape at Pine Hill late yesterday evening. I do not know how true this is, as such reports often come from there that are not true.

To-day is County Court day. A large crowd in town, but little business transacted, only a few cases on the docket. The case of J. M. Proctor vs. Kiddie was set for to-day. It is just now being called; will give particulars in my next letter.

Farmers are preparing for a large crop this year. Several of them are about ready to plant. Wheat looks well, and oats are coming up finely. Taking all together it seems like the farmer will have a good year.

The Kentucky Central engineers are now on Rockcastle river surveying a line up the river from Livingston to some where in Jackson county. They seem to be about to connect with the L. & N. road at or near London, but our people still think they will come to Mt. Vernon.

Quite a sad accident occurred yesterday to Mt. Miller, a son of M. J. Miller. He and some other boys were playing in court-house yard. Some of them got into a friendly wrestle. Mt. fell and John Proctor fell upon him in such a way as to break his leg just above the ankle. The bones was set by Drs. McKee and Brown, and he is resting easy at this writing.

Two fights in town last Saturday. Tom Hinchman knocked a Spanish tramp down; neither of them was hurt as both were drunk at the time of the difficulty. The tramp got up and they took a drink and made friends. The parties to the other knock-down were George Jones and J. Brittain Taylor. Brit is under bond for Saturday, and the case not being ready for trial it was continued until Tuesday next. Jones is the champion of Strap Brown, the man to whom the chickens belonged. After the trial was continued they all repaired to their favorite saloon and began to get drunk as fast as possible. Jones and Taylor finally met and began to abuse each other at a fearful rate. Taylor called Jones a d—d son of a b—h and gaily tapped Taylor on the side of the head, and he measured his full length on the floor. At this friends intervened and kept them from doing any further damage. Taylor and his friends say that they are not done with that fight yet.

Society of that place which occurs on the tiful Queen, will be rendered.

The baby born with bangs was the subject of conversation among the sewing societies at their last meetings, but they didn't find out what they were so anxious to know: the name of the mother of will be appointed to wait on us and

CIRCUIT COURT.—This Court has been in session but two days since our last report. The business is mostly confined to small appeal cases that would not interest

the general public. Shanks Spoonamore, for using profane language before the Grand Jury, was fined a fine of $10 and costs. To-day is set for the trial of B. B.

Conn.

REARDED.—Mrs. Lewis Hall, who brought suit for divorce against her husband, Lewis, who was in jail for beating her, has since his release succumbed to his sweet words of love and promises to do better, and agreed to live with him again.

Accordingly she has asked that her petition be withdrawn and two souls are happily again.

THE caucus of the Democratic members of the Legislature, suggested a substitute for the bill of the Committee which alters the make-up of this district as fol-

Madison, Lincoln, Rockcastle, Laurel and Jackson. The 11th is changed to read,

Hart, Warren, Metcalfe, Green, Taylor,

Adair, Casey, Russell, Pulaski, Wayne and Whitley.

CAPTURED.—FROMER Minor, who shot

John Ferrell at Millersville last month, from the effects of which he died last Sunday a week ago, was arrested on Friday,

by Messrs. J. T. Land and L. P. Coffey, who found him in the knoll back of Millersville. He made no resistance as he saw it was useless, and surrendered unconditionally. He was lodged in jail and his captivity given a certificate which will enable him to draw the $200 reward offered by the Governor.

It is a real pleasure to go into the handsome new store-room of Mr. E. P. Owsley and see his array of goods, all fresh from the cities. Another beauty of it is that he has marked them down to the lowest net, and is able to furnish goods for the least money than anybody. Although a young man, he has had much experience in his line of trade, and we are confident that he will make a most successful merchant. We wish him all the good luck imaginable.

A FEW of our subscribers, and we are glad to say that they are very few, are discontinuing their paper as their times expire, because they do not want to pay the additional 50 cents. They forget that we have furnished them the Semi-

Weekly so far free of charge, or in other words, given them fifteen papers more than we agreed to do. It seems to us that as an evidence of their appreciation of this they ought to renew, but this is a free country and everybody can do as he wishes.

Besides, too, when one old subscriber dies several new ones come to his burial, and thus our list of stand-bys constantly increases. We give more reading matter for the money than any newspaper outside of the cities in this State, a fact that is being recognized far and near.

PETTY BUSINESS.—From all that we can learn the present grand jury is devoting its valuable time to petty matters, almost to the exclusion of the many, weighty murder cases that it should investigate.

For instance, it is said that it is indicting persons for engaging in the hairless pastime of shooting at turkeys to decide the best marksmanship, and as foolish and unwell as it may appear, the question of indicting the Skating Rink Club for giving a Tournament, in which the persons engaged beforehand, is being discussed. All this, too, while murder, rapine and robbery are stalking in all their hideous deformity over the most favored country that this sun ever shone upon. If this is the best that it can do, the jury should adjourn and die at once and return to the more important pursuit of farming. The people do not wish to pay $24 per day for such piddling.

RELIGIOUS.

last year.

—The Presbyterian Board of Foreign

Missions has received $300,300.31 since

May last.

—Statistics show that there is one minister to every 147 members of the Metho-—Rev. T. A. Crenshaw, pastor of the Christian Church at Versailles, died suddenly at North Middleton, Sunday, whither

he had gone to preach.

—A subscription of $3,000 has been made by the Second Church, Louisville, to found a new Mission in China to be known as the Stuart Robinson Fund.

—Superintendent John W. Rout tells us that the attendance at the Presbyterian

Sunday-school has averaged 79 during the last quarter ending Sunday last. A pretty good showing indeed.

—Fifteen thousand Good Templars of Illinois have submitted a petition to Congress asking for an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

—The members of the Christian church at their meeting Sunday, resolved to call

Dr. Josiah Cox to be their pastor for the ensuing year, and if he accepts, he will good a man.

—Dr. Hinar preached a very learned discourse at the Methodist church Sunday morning, on the subject of Immorality.

The Dr. is a man of fine personal appearance, is possessed of a deep toned, pleasant voice, and when he warms up to his subject, he displays at the same time the gifts of the orator as well as the profound reasoner. One lady, Miss Lettie Fabius, of Missouri, was added to the church by

A Curious Client.

A Brooklyn newspaper man received a note from a law firm, Smith, Jones & Smith, notifying him that a claim against him for several dollars had been placed in their hands for collection, and instructing him that he could save himself some trouble if he'd come around and talk the matter over. The journalist was perfectly prepared to converse on the subject, but declined to pay, so he dropped in on Smith, Jones & Smith and notified them that he had some business for them.

"There's a man in this town threat- ening to sue me," said he, "and I'm prepared to spend any amount to beat him. Can you undertake to carry me through?"

"Certainly," ejaculated Smith, Jones & Smith, to whom the news- paper man was a stranger.

"What I want to do is to bother him," observed the client. Can I bother him, whether I owe him or not?"

"Well, we should smile," remarked Smith, Jones & Smith. "I'll take him twenty years, if we work the case."

"You are strangers to me, gentle- men," said the client, "though I hear you highly spoken of. Now, suppose he should sue me, how would you go to work?"

"First, we should state off the an- swer. Then we would take a lot of depositions de bene esse. Just before the trial we would have a commission to examine witnesses in Siberia; other witnesses would be taken; we would have such engagements that we would save the trial off, and if he got a judgment we would appeal. Yes, sir, he'd sue up twenty years getting the money."

"But what would the lawyers on the other side be up to all this time?" I'm told they're pretty smart fel- lows."

"Don't care. Who are they?" "I don't remember their names, but I have got the letter. Here! What's this?" By Jove, gentlemen, they're Smith, Jones & Smith!"

The partners looked aghast.

"I hope that nothing I've said will be used against me," said the client, looking from one to the other. "I trust, gentlemen, that you would give me away in this matter. It's an awful blunder on my part, but I sincerely hope you would take any advantage of it."

Smith, Jones & Smith held a brief consultation.

"Am I in much peril?" asked the client anxiously.

"We think not," said Smith, Jones & Smith. "We are—eh—are we are prepared to drop the proceedings. We won't mention it, if you want."

"I'll agree not to mention any name," replied the client, with a grin, "and I'll promise you my business in the future."

There was some further conversa- tion at an adjacent hotel, and, gentle reader, the only trouble is their names were not Smith, Jones & Smith.

A Disgraced Widow.

Capt. W. has just returned from the Warm Springs. The Cap- tain is a widower. At the springs was a widow who rather set her cap for the Captain. The girls took him to look out, and the Captain replied, "Well, he was ready."

Sitting out on the porch one eve- ning, the cool breeze fanning like a ten-cent palm-leaf, and thinking of his daughters far away at school, the wid- ow moved up and opened the conver- sation.

"I hear, Captain, you have grown- up daughters?"

"Yes, Madam, I have."

"How I should like to see their pictures!"

"I will show you a picture of my eldest daughter," said the Captain, handing her one.

"Oh, such a sweet face," said the widow, "and such a fine eye. Isn't she called like you, Captain?"

"No, Madam, that she is not."

"It is a wonder to me, Capt. W., you do not get married."

"Well, Madam, I never think of it; for the woman I'd have might not have me, and then, you know, vice versa."

"Yes, but what kind of a lady would suit you?" said the widow, looking her sweetest.

It was right here the Captain's nerve did not forsake him, but, set- ting his eye steadily at the widow's, he hardened his heart and replied: "Madam, she must be 95 years old to a second and worth $100,000."

"It's getting so chilly out here I must go," she said, and the widow, and the blush-faced son of the Cap- tain, to the brush-him by with a toss of her head.

No one can doubt for a moment that if this State were in the hands of the Republican party, it would be ad- vanced to a position of national ex- cellence that must astonish—not to say paralyze the country. If, by chance, there should be found one narrow minded person who does not believe this, we beg to refer him to the col- umns of our respectable, honest, can- nible-but-not-contemporary on Green Street—the non-official-seeking Commercial.—[Sunday Argus.

Types of Brakemen.

"How many types of the many-aided brakemen we have traveled with," said the editor, missing over two years platform-travel. "There is the principal one, you know, who always doubles up on the names of the stations and calls out Cleveland, Cleveland! Change cars for Hudson, Ravenna and Akron! This car's for Buffalo!"

"And the jovial one," said the as- sistant, "the jolly brakeman, who is always happy; who, when we run into a penitentiary town, always shouts 'Moyamensing! Change snits! Seven years for refreshment!' If you still him the fire has gone out, he wants to know who left the door open. The crosser the passengers are the merrier he is, and it would be a thing without parallel to see him mad."

"And the dismal brakeman," said the cross passenger. "Who puts wet wood in the stove and leaves the door open, and spills grease on you when he lights the candles, and if you ask him when we get there, he sighs and says we may never get there. He points out of a window at a whistling post and says, 'There's where number six ran off and killed Billy Bly last week.' And when we cross a ravine he says, 'This is the same kind of a bridge the Ashtabula disaster happened on.' And he points to a heart-broken man two seats ahead of you and tells you, 'His wife is dead. We've got her in the baggage car.' And then in a determined effort to increase your gloom, he adds 'Only one he had.'"

"And the cautious brakeman," said the passenger, "the slow-spoken man who always looks at his watch very carefully before he will tell you at what time the train is due at the ter- minus, and looks out the window to get his landmark before he tells you where you stop for dinner."

"And the irascible one," said the man on the wood box, "who roars 'Now! when you ask him if this is a mail train and bangs the door against your elbow every time he comes in, and tells a bewildered woman who wants to know how she can get off at the tank, 'When we stop at Brew- ster's, run down on 12 and catch 22 coming on 15th time, and that's the only train that stops there.' And he gets so filled with wrath that he has to get out on the platform and swear it off at the little snort birds on the telegraph wires. 'I know him,' the man on the wood-box said, as he rubbed his elbow with pathetic emphasis."

"And the liar," said the woman who talks sass, "who tells you the train makes close connection with other trains at places that are not junctions; who tells he'll build a fire in that car after they leave the next station, and you find that the end of his run; who says he'll help you out with your val- ises and then runs back into the par- lor car to talk with the engineer's daughter, and who always tells you he has no key when you ask him to turn a seat for you."—[Burlington Hawkeye.

The Battle of Waterloo.

The strength of the army under the Duke of Wellington at Waterloo was 49,608 infantry, 12,402 cavalry, and 5,645 artillery men, with 156 guns. But of this total of 67,653 men scarcely 24,000 were British. There were about 6,000 men of the old German Legion with the Duke; these were veteran troops, and of ex- cellent quality. But the rest of the army was made up of Hanoverians, Brunswickers, Nassauers, Dutch and Belgians, many of whom were tried soldiers, and fought well, but many had been lately levied. Napoleon's army at Waterloo consisted of 48,950 infantry, 15,765 cavalry, 7,232 artil- lery men, being a total of 71,941 men and 246 guns. They are described as "the elite of the national force of France; and of all of the numerous gallant armies which that martial land has poured forth, never was there one braver, or better disciplined, or better led than the host that took up its position at Waterloo on the morn- ing of June 18, 1815." Napoleon be- gan the battle at about 11:30 a. m., by directing a powerful force from his left wing, under his brother, Prince Jerome, to attack Hougoumont, the fight at which is so graphically de- scribed by Victor Hugo, in "Les Miserables." The great battle lasted until about 9 o'clock, and the Prus- sians drove the French fugitives be- fore them throughout the night. The army under the Duke of Wellington lost nearly 15,000 men in killed and wounded, and the loss of the Prus- sian army was nearly 7,000 more. The loss of the French was upward of 30,000 men, beside 227 pieces of artil- lery.

To induce sleep the head should be placed somewhat higher than the rest of the body. If wakefulness is ap- prehended the application of cold water to the head and nape of the neck, while in a tepid bath, has been found useful, for it helps to draw the blood to the body, the condition precedent to all healthful slumber. Cold feet should be guarded against. A warm foot-bath has often been found effica- cious against insomnia. Feather beds and pillows, which heat the back of the head, are objectionable, and plum- ber is much more successfully wum- bered lying on the side than on the back. Nightmare is a rare visitor to persons sleeping on the right or left side. The origin of frightful dreams can often be traced to a habit of sleep- ing flat on the back, which in some persons impresses the nervous cen- ters as to create the vibrations in the brain which induce unpleasant sensa- tions in sleep.

Dr. Hugh Glenn, the California farmer who owns 50,000 acres of land, has this year 45,000 acres in wheat. He has 350,000 sacks ready, each holding 140 lbs. but he thinks they will not hold his golden harvest. Dr. Glenn is a native of Virginia, a gradu- ate of medicine, and was a soldier in the war with Mexico.

Thought He Was a Fraud.

"Would you be kind enough to publish a notice of our Sabbath school?" asked a grave-looking man of the city editor. "And you can incidentally speak of me as the Superintendent."

"Certainly," replied the city editor, opening his note book. "What is the amount?"

"Oh! I don't begrudge the space, but how much will cover the total loss?"

"I don't understand you," said the grave man. "Do you mean to say that you don't understand the city editor?"

"Well, when did the city editor make this discovery?" exclaimed the city editor impatiently. "Do you confess, or did they examine the books?"

"I am at a loss to know what you mean. I am the superintendent of a Sabbath school, and I'd like a notice in your Sunday issue," explained the grave man.

"How am I going to write a notice without the facts?" demanded the city editor. "I want the name of the bank, the amount of the loss, the way it was discovered and the amount of your bond. Give me those and I can fill in about your being petrified by the blow and the surprise to a large circle of friends."

"I greatly fear that we are at cross- purposes," said the grave man mildly. "I am a respectable citizen."

"That's one point. Never even as- pected before. Always led a life of probity and was the custodian of un- told wealth. Fell in an evil hour. How much? What's the amount of your last defalcation?"

"My dear sir!" protested the grave man, "you entirely misapprehend me! I am not a defaulter!"

"Not a defaulter?" ejaculated the city editor, leaning back in astonish- ment. "What are you clamoring around here after a notice for? Git, now!" and the city editor grabbed the grave man by the collar and elbow and shoved him down stairs.

"Who was he?" asked the managing editor.

"An snail!" retorted the ruffled city editor. "He came around here trying to play himself off for a Sunday school Superintendent, when he didn't know the first principles of the racket. He might get it off on some young man, but he couldn't play it on me for a cent!" and the city editor plumped down at his desk in disgust at the thin- ness of the disguise some men will assume when starting out to beat for a notice.—[Brooklyn Eagle.

A Soft Place.

"I was down to see the widow yester- day," said Tim's uncle, "and she gave me backbones for dinner. I went down rather early in the morning; we talked, and laughed, and chattered, and went on, she going in and out oc- casionally to see things till dinner was ready, when she helped me graciously to back bones. Now I thought that, Tim, rather favorable. I took it as a symptom of personal approbation, be- cause every body knows I love back- bones, and I flattered myself she had cooked them on purpose for me. So I grew particularly cheerful and I thought I could see it in her too. So after dinner, while sitting close beside the widow, I fancied we both felt our comfortable like. I know I did. I felt that I had fallen head and ears in love with her, and I imagined from the way she looked, and had fallen teeth and toe nails in love with me. She appeared just by all the world like she thought it was coming, that I was going to court her. Presently, couldn't help it, I laid my hand on her beautiful shoulder, and I remark- ed after I had put it there in my blindest tones, Tim, for I tried to throw my whole soul in the ex- pression, I remarked then, with my eyes pouring love, truth, and fidelity right into her, Widow, this is the nicest, softest place I ever had my hand in all my life."

Looking benevolently at me, and at the same time flushing up a little, she said in melting and winning tones: "Doctor, give me your hand, and I'll put it on a much softer place."

This little essay on "Frog," by Miss Emily Owen, of the Female Institute at Nicholasville, appears in the Calliopean Banner. "The frog is an au- thentic animal found in all parts of the temperate, and, probably, the tor- rid zones. It has four feet, a naked body and no tail. Now, a person who had never seen a frog might think that, having no tail, it has some difficulty in keeping the dies off his naked body. But the frog has a way of receiving the flies when they call upon him. He tells them to 'come in and they generally do. The frog lies torpid until Spring, then he comes out and begins to sing. The frog lives on small insects and vegeta- bles. It is preyed upon by snakes and geese, and the bird legs are also eaten by some people, especially the French, who say the meat is very fine. The tadpole is half an inch long when hatched. The month is distinct, but small and without lips. Without any great change in form, the size is rapidly increased. The tadpole survives the severest winter. It survives the coldest water. The tadpole is not only graceful and harm- less, but is actually useful in destroy- ing insects and snail injurious to ve- getation. The difference between a frog and a toad is that the body of the frog is soft and smooth, while that of the toad is thick and bumpy."

Hope Ahead.

A committee of stockholders who waited upon the superintendent of a California mine to ask why the blazes the said mine hadn't panned out any- thing but assessments, were graciously re- ceived, invited to be seated, and the official explained:

"Gentlemen, you are all aware of the fact that we had scarcely begun work when the month of our mine was blocked by a land slide. That put us back a month."

They nodded their remembrance. "Then we had just got in shape to take out 4,000 tons of ore, worth $2, 000 per ton, when the mine caved in; you recall it?"

They did. "Once more we bent ourselves to the burden of reaping $500 for every $10 invested, when the mine was flooded by a subterranean river."

That was true, also. "Then we had just got the water out when we discovered that our mine was located on another man's claim. We had him stop to prevent trouble, and once more we were about to de- clare a dividend of 200 per cent., when the dead man's heirs put in an appearance. There were three of them. We chased one over the range, had another hung by the vigilance committee, and I am happy to inform you that I have four men out after the other, and am every hour expect- ing to hear that he has tumbled off a cliff. Gentlemen, there is hope ahead—golden hope. Please come up and take a drink with me, after which there will be another assessment of 10 per cent.—[Wall Street Daily News.

A Fable for a Cent.

A Lamb one day entered a Saloon to quench his thirst with a glass of Lager, and while quaffing the Beverage he noticed a wolf playing seven up in one corner of the room.

"Why do you throw snow balls at me?" demanded the Lamb, as he sat down his glass.

"I beg to remind you that this is Midsummer," humbly replied the wolf, "and I could not throw snow- balls even if I desired."

"That may be," continued the Lamb, "but you lie about me to the Hares."

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Lamb, no man can remember when the Wolves and the Hares were on speaking terms."

"And that may be true, also," shout- ed the outraged Lamb, "but you have been cheating at cards!"

"I will leave that to the Jackal, who has just won my last Nickel."

"Then if you have no Cash you have no business in here!" howled the Aggressor, and he fell upon the poor Wolf and Lamed him until he could hardly crawl.

A writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal gives some of the current su- perstitions of Kentucky negroes. If a person passes through a funeral procession he will die before the oldest one in it. If a dog lies on its back and howls it presages an early death in the family. If the longest snake killed in a day's search be suspended from the tree nearest to a parcel of land it will bring rain. If it be necessary to turn back after starting on an errand, the consequent bad luck may be averted by making a cross in the path with the left forefinger. A stutterer may be cured by creeping up behind him unawares and knock- ing him down with a raw beef tongue just taken from the heat by an unmar- ried butcher under 21. A bloody knife, a bottle of alcohol, and a bag of live lizards are an effective outfit for bewitching an enemy; but the in- tended victim is often warned of the danger by an owl's screech close to his hand. The recipient of a poisonous snake's bite drinks a pint of whisky, and then, if either enough, kills the first black chicken with white tail feathers he can find, picks the feathers out and burns them.

An Iowa journalist has come across a lady in that State who claims that in her youthful days General Grant was very "attentive" to her. "Uliss," said she, "would say to me: 'Let's gather flowers and see which will have the most kinds when we get through.' We always called him 'Uliss' and while he was courting me and wanted to marry me, my father used to plague me, saying: 'If in the greenest look- ing boy I ever saw,' and smiling to herself, she added: 'and he was a green looking fellow. When the flowers were gathered we would arrange them nicely and exchange bouquets.'"

A young man at Elkhardt Ind., has started a six column weekly news- paper with the avowed object of "restor- ing the republic to its wonted grand- eur and prosperity." You can't do it, young fellow. We tried for six years to restore the republic to its wonted grandeur and prosperity by publishing the latest paper in this country and taking turpentine and slab wood on sub- scriptions, and never had money to buy a dog; but of late years we have let the wonted grandeur of the republic slip for itself, and the 1st of Janu- ary we had over $6.—[Peck's Sun.

"Mama, is the old hen going to be sent away for the Summer?" "No, Charlie; but why do you ask?" "Well I heard papa tell the new governess that they would have a good time when he sent the old hen away for the Summer." Mama put little Char- lie to bed.—[Philadelphia Times.
